DETERMINATION OF FUNCTIONALS OF NEUTRON FLUX INFLUENCED ON REACTOR PRESSURE VESSEL AS A STATISTICAL DECISION PROBLEM

V.L. Dyemokhin, V.N. Bukanov

Estimating of the neutron flux functionals by a Monte Carlo transport code is shown to be a statistical decision problem. Hence, to choose an estimator, to make a loss function, and to define a joint probability density function are required for the purpose to estimate correctly of the functionals.